It's still Winter so be careful out there!

Snow, ice and rain can make walking and driving treacherous. It's so easy to fall and end up in an already overcrowded A & E.

Make sure you clear your driveway to prevent slips and falls and make sure your car is Winter ready.

Keeping Yourself Healthy by Testing

NHS Cervical Test Screening

The NHS cervical screening guidelines are designed to ensure the health of the cervix and prevent cervical cancer. Here are the key points of the guidelines.

All women aged 25 to 64 are invited for cervical screening every 5 years to check the health of their cervix. Cervical screening used to be called a smear test.

Everyone with a cervix should go for cervical screening.

If you're a trans man or non-binary and have a cervix, you can speak to your GP, sexual health clinic or transgender health clinic about getting invitations routinely.

It's not a test for cancer; it's a test to help prevent cancer.

During the screening appointment, a small sample of cells will be taken from your cervix.

The nurse or doctor will tell you when you can expect your results.

NHS Breast Screening

You will automatically get your first invitation for breast screening between the ages of 50 and 53. You'll then be invited every 3 years until your 71st birthday.

If you're transgender or non-binary and you would like to be invited for breast screening, ask your GP surgery for advice.

You need to be registered with a GP surgery to be invited for breast screening.

If you have not been invited for breast screening by the age of 53 and think you should have, contact your local breast screening service.

NHS Prostate Testing

The NHS does not provide a mass screening for Prostate Cancer, but it does provide guidelines for prostate testing, particularly for men without symptoms. Here are the key points regarding prostate testing under NHS guidelines:

1 in 8 men are likely to develop symptoms and, if you are Black then the risk is double.

PSA Testing: A PSA test measures the level of prostate-specific antigen (PSA) in the blood, which can indicate prostate conditions such as cancer or an enlarged prostate. It is recommended for men up to the age of 80..

Testing Process: The test is usually done at a hospital or GP surgery and involves a blood test. It is important to avoid certain activities and foods 48 hours before the test to ensure accurate results.

Results and Follow-up: Results are typically available within 1 to 2 weeks. If the PSA level is raised, further tests such as a biopsy or MRI scan may be recommended.

Support and Advice: Men can discuss the benefits and risks of the PSA test with their GP and can also use the NHS App or website to view their test results online.
